Summary of Progress this Report

The course of this week was spent planning and writing the project plan.

Pending Issues

For the coming week, deliverables have been assigned to each member. Many of these deliverables will require additional research and experimenting past what has already been done. Many of these deliverables have cross-story dependencies and will require either pair programming or another story to be completed first.

Plans for Upcoming Reporting Period

Each member has a deliverable assigned to them, each with a distinct goal in mind. Each person is assigned a task in our trello and each person should have that task completed by the time the next weekly report is submitted. We are truly starting the agile sprint methodology here.
