Summary of Progress this Report
Over the past week, time was devoted to getting testing environments set up and a database closer to functionality. Previous week's individual parts were checked for compatibility, and further edited for usability.

Pending Issues
Going forward with the project has become more difficult due to a few major aspects that are delaying the project. These aspects will need to be fleshed out before we can begin putting our app together for real functionality.

Plans for Upcoming Reporting Period
For the next week, time will be devoted to getting some of the larger production blocks worked through. Due to the career fair and the number of our members looking for a job after graduation, less work will be completed this coming period.
